

WONDER OF OMAHA'S EXPOSITION.

A Giant Umbrella, 350 Feet High.

Omaha, Neb., July 9.—It would seem a hazardous undertaking in these times of depression in the middle west to undertake the vast outlay necessary to a world's fair, but Nebraska has tackled the problem boldly, and with so much energy that already it has $1,250,000 pledged, although the opening of the Trans-Mississippi exposition is 11 months distant. Two millions have been fixed upon by the managers as the needed sum to allow the world, between June 1 and Oct. 1 of 1938, the manifold resources of that section of the country. The east, the north, the south and the far west have all had great expositions during the past 20 years, beginning with the Philadelphia centennial, but the middle west has been neglected.

Profiting by the experiences of these ventures, the Omaha men are not going the site, and 12 of these are being laid out so as to form a permanent park. In this tract will be erected the art building, which will also be a permanent structure. The principal buildings, a great lagoon and the main entrances will be located on a 60-acre tract, and the remaining 90 acres will be used for the agricultural and live stock displays.

Of the many features already arranged for in one which promises to eclipse the Eiffel tower of Paris, the Ferris wheel of Chicago and the giant saw-saw of Nashville. This is an immense umbrella-shaped affair, which will suspend the visitors 25 feet above the waters of the Missouri and twirl them about in a way that will eclipse all previous nerve-shakers of the kind. This structure will cost $200,000 to build and a number of Chicago capitalists are in the scheme, led by the inventor, R. E. Sherman. The site chosen for the giant umbrella is on the edge of the bluff, which rises to a height of 225 feet above the river. The vertical standard of the affair will be 225 feet high, and the cars containing the visitors are raised to the top features of a swing in the cars. The lower platform, which will be used for this purpose, will have a capacity of 300 passengers and will rise to a height of 240 feet.

The arms on which the cars will be hung will be each 100 feet in length. The hoisting and revolving machinery will be placed inside the vertical standard, and steel cables will run from the cars at the extremities of the arms to the counter-weights within the standard. The power will be supplied by a dynamo, and the whole affair will be electrically lighted, including the cars and the summit of the standard, from which a high-power searchlight will flash. It is counted upon making three trips an hour and giving each batch of passengers a ten-minute whirl at the top.

All of the ordinary features of a great exposition will be included, such as the midway and kindred amusements, and

LACKED THE USUAL AIR OF BUSINESS

Saturday's Wall Street Trading Affected by the Heat.

NEW YORK, July 10.—The day's market for stocks was devoid of interest. The two hours of trading on Saturday lacked the usual business, as a rule. Today was a holiday on the London exchange, set apart to house cleaning. The usual tone imparted to the opening here by London was lacking. The heated term has driven many native operators in the market out of town and the attendance on the exchange was small. The fact that the whole temper of the market has been taken on a waiting disposition. Would-be buyers and would-be sellers are both scarce, and when they appeared today they found themselves at a disadvantage in their respective ideas of prices. The consequence was that transactions on the exchange in the aggregate reached barely half a hundred thousand shares sold, and one-fourth of this amount was sugar. This stock was erratic during the day on the conflicting rumors regarding the tariff, but did not move over a very wide range. It fluctuated above last night's close during the whole session, at one time rising 1 1/2 points, and at another falling 1 1/2 points. Only ten other stocks were dealt in to the extent of 1,000 shares.
